Amounts Wagered (EUR mm)

- Amounts wagered continue to grow 18.8% on a year-on-year basis as we deploy sports betting terminals throughout Spain, on the back of an 18.1% increase in sports betting venues (Jun-17 versus Jun-16).

Take (1) – Pre-match ACA Football Bets (%)

- Football currently represents about 50% of total amounts wagered and about 30% of that amount is pre-match cumulative (“ACA”) football bets. As a consequence, take variations in football events have a significant impact on our results.

- Pre-match ACA football bets provide the highest take margin averaging 34% and 30% in 2015 and 2016, respectively, but a lower 25% in 1H 2017.

- The take margin was adversely affected by player friendly results in the major European football leagues during the latter part of the quarter.

- This take variation has occurred despite a stable channel, product and betting mix.

- According to competitor reports and market data provided by regulators, these player friendly results have affected other sports betting operators in Europe and Spain, in a similar manner.

Take (%) (1)

- In addition, Real Madrid results in 2017 (Champions and La Liga trophies) have resulted in an additional erosion of win.

- Despite this lower margin, we have maintained our differential in take versus competitors and believe that, in the next quarters, margins will settle at or close to 20% levels.

Argentine Peso Devaluation (through June 30, 2017)

On December 17, 2015, the Argentine Government lifted currency controls (thereby allowing the ARS to trade freely) which resulted in a 34.7% devaluation against the EUR.

ARS Blue Rate (Argentina)

- In October 2011, in response to the negative macroeconomic situation of Argentina and resultant capital flight, the government introduced foreign exchange (“capital”) controls.
- This weak economic environment eventually led to runaway inflation which both reduced Argentine citizen purchasing power and demand for local savings.
- Due to the capital controls in place, these individuals were unable to move their savings to hard currency safe havens (e.g. USD), at least not at official exchange rates, which led to the emergence of an unofficial foreign currency market (to satisfy this demand to shift savings out of ARS and into, for example, USD).
- The rate at which the USD traded versus the ARS in this unofficial rate was referred to as the USD Blue Rate.
- For multi-national companies with operations in Argentina, the primary channel utilized to upstream cash during this period was through the purchase of Argentine sovereign bonds in ARS followed by, after meeting minimum hold period requirements, the sale of these bonds in USD (incurring a cost approximately equal to the difference between the ARS Official Rate and ARS Blue Rate, or a similar alternate effective rate).
- On December 17, 2015, following the election of a new national government in Argentina, the foreign exchange controls were lifted, resulting in a 36% devaluation in the USD/ARS exchange rate.
