OVERVIEW

- We have placed our ratings on CreditWatch negative in 33 Spanish "multi-cédulas" transactions. Our ratings in 15 transactions remain unaffected by today's rating actions.
- These rating actions affect about €69 billion of multi-cédulas bonds.
- We have taken today's rating actions to review the effect that rating actions on certain banks and "cédulas hipotecarias" rated by us may have on these multi-cédulas transactions.

MADRID (Standard & Poor's) Jan. 31, 2013--Standard & Poor's Ratings Services today placed on CreditWatch negative its credit ratings in 33 Spanish mortgage multi-cédulas covered bond transactions, and left unchanged its ratings in 15 transactions.

For the full list of today's rating actions, see "Spanish Multi-Cedulas Rating Actions As Of Jan. 31, 2013."

We have placed our ratings in these multi-cédulas transactions on CreditWatch negative while we review the effect of several rating factors that have continued to deteriorate since our last reviews of the transactions in August and July 2012 (see "Related Research" below). We will use our updated credit estimate assumptions as well as the existing ratings on the issuers and on the mortgage covered bonds (cédulas) to review whether the available reserve funds or liquidity lines are still commensurate with the current ratings assigned.

Spanish multi-cédulas transactions can be characterized as a repackaging of underlying Spanish mortgage-backed covered bonds (cédulas hipotecarias). Our ratings in multi-cédulas transactions reflect our assumption of an expected full recovery on the underlying cédulas if the underlying issuer defaults. The ratings also consider whether the extension of the scheduled maturity of the multi-cédulas, coupled with a dedicated reserve fund or liquidity line, is able to mitigate potential interest shortfalls. These features are designed to facilitate ongoing timely payment according to the multi-cédulas' original terms and conditions.

The cédulas issuers are Spanish savings banks ("cajas de ahorros") or banks.

Following further downgrades in the last few months of the underlying issuers, some downgrades to the underlying cédulas which we rate and the increase in concentration levels in the transactions, due to the ongoing restructuring process in the Spanish financial system, we will conduct an analysis of each transaction. We will determine whether the current levels of credit enhancement, to cover possible interest shortfalls in these 33 transactions, would be sufficient to pay interest on all of their respective bonds to their current rating levels if a cédula issuer defaults.

There are 15 multi-cédulas transactions which we believe are not as negatively affected by the factors listed above and therefore we have left the ratings on these transactions unchanged.

To assess whether the reserve funds or liquidity lines provided are still commensurate with the assigned ratings, we will review changes in:

- The underlying issuer credit ratings or credit estimates on the participating financial institutions or our ratings on the cédulas, which have suffered further downgrades and that have a negative effect on scenario default rates (SDRs); and
- The level of concentration in the Spanish banking sector, which has increased following mergers and acquisitions. This has led to a reduction in the number of issuers participating in the transactions, which could further contribute to rising SDRs.

As a result, the negative effect on the probability of default (SDRs) could result in an increase in the level of credit enhancement that we would deem to be commensurate with the current rating level for each transaction.
