FITCH DOWNGRADES BBVA RMBS 8

Fitch Ratings-London/Madrid-30 March 2012: Fitch Ratings has downgraded one and affirmed two tranches of BBVA RMBS 8, FTA as follows:

Class A (ISIN ES0316858002): downgraded to 'Asf' from 'AA-sf'; Outlook Negative

Class B (ISIN ES0316858010): affirmed at 'BBB+sf'; Outlook Stable

Class C (ISIN ES0316858028): affirmed at 'BBsf'; Outlook Stable

BBVA RMBS 8, FTA is a Spanish RMBS transaction backed fully by Vivendas de Proteccion Oficial (VPO) loans originated by Banco Bilbao Vizcaya Argentaria (BBVA; 'A'/Negative/'F1').

The downgrade of the class A notes follows the recent downgrade of BBVA, which acts as the swap provider and account bank in the transaction. Given the nature of the assets, which are loans on protected dwellings, linked to a national or local housing programme, with favourable terms and conditions, the weighted average interest rate on the portfolio (fixed by law for the different VPO national plans) is assumed to be below the market average rate for standard mortgages portfolios. As a result, the swap in the transaction is a material source of revenue, as the issuer receives the interest paid on the notes plus a 40bps margin, thereby creating a credit linkage between the notes and the bank's Long-term Issuer Default Rating. For this reason, the downgrade of the bank to 'A'/Negative/'F1' has led to the downgrade of the class A notes.

The performance of the underlying assets since Fitch's assignment of ratings in April 2011 has remained in line with the agency's expectations for VPO backed portfolios. The volume of loans in arrears by more than 90 days was at 0.1% of the current portfolio, while cumulative defaults, defined as loans in arrears by more than 18 months, stood at 0.03% of the initial pool. Despite the ongoing concern over the future macroeconomic environment in Spain, the agency does not foresee a sudden deterioration in asset performance in this transaction. The view is supported by the fact that more than half of the loans in the pool benefit from subsidies on instalments ranging from 5% to 45% of the monthly payments, which serve as an incentive for borrowers to remain performing. Should the borrowers fail to make their payments, they would lose their subsidies.

The solid performance to date, along with the sufficient level of credit support available to the class B and C notes were the key drivers behind the affirmation of the notes.
